

Maximum Course Load for Graduate Students

The maximum course load for a graduate student is a total of 13 semester hours during the fall, spring and combined summer semesters. Any exception to this regulation must be approved by the department head and the dean/associate dean of the College of Graduate Studies.